

BARRE DAILY TIMES

Entered at the Post Office at Barre as Second Class Matter.

Published every week-day afternoon.
Subscriptions: One year, $3; one month, 25 cents; single copy, 1 cent.
Frank E. Langley, Publisher.

THURSDAY, MAY 13, 1909.

The average daily circulation of the Barre Daily Times for the week ending Saturday was copies, the largest paid circulation of any daily paper in this section.

5,115

Fashion note: verdicts of guilty in murder trials are coming into style again.

How can one be placid with Lake Placid, N. Y., reporting a huge gold mine?

That leopard would gladly have changed his spots if he could have avoided the Roosevelt bullet.

If the location of Paris is asked for, tell them that it is in a state of siege and you won't be far off at present.

The Vermont G. A. R. almost held its own in membership last year, there being a net loss of only 95 out of a total membership of nearly three thousand.

That's the way they hit up our state courts; a Caldonia county case, which was started thirty years ago, now comes to the supreme court for the fourth time on exceptions. We take exceptions to such liberty.

The John D. Rockefeller retrenchment idea has spread to his religious side, as we note by the announcement that his New York church has clipped its plans for a two-million dollar church to a mere half-million. Still, the preaching will be just as good.

BRATTLEBORO PHOENIX CHANGES.

A change in the editorial staff of the Brattleboro Phoenix brings Walter Gilbert, a Brattleboro newspaper man, into the position of editor, while Walter E. Hubbard will now devote his whole time to the work of the business manager. The latter has been long associated with Publisher French and knows the paper's interests from A to Z, so that his stepping into the position of manager will be but a natural advancement. Editor Gilbert knows the local field thoroughly and is a newspaper man of experience, so that he and Mr. Hubbard may be depended upon to maintain the high standard of their journal. In their new work they have the best wishes of the state press.

ONE WHO IS STILL UNFORGIVING.

The Times is in receipt of the following communication:

"Chester Depot, Vt., May 12, 1909.
"Editor Barre Times:
"Give me a word to say to you, to have sympathy for a commissioned Confederate guerrilla. I would have liked to have you in front of their muskets. Bennett H. Young was well in his own state and is now, but for officials of this generation to extend an invitation to those people who have always held their heads low, not conquered, was over-reaching the lines of propriety, and for you to say we are making a mistake in looking the door in the Southerner's face. You should read the history of the Rebellion.

"Yours truly,
"Lieut. L. W. Bissell."

We cannot see that the above offers anything new or especially argumentative to the discussion which has been going on in the state and in which we have taken the stand that it would only be a sign of a reunited brotherhood for Vermont at this time to extend a welcoming hand to Col. Young and as a token that in the spirit of 'malice toward none, with charity for all, with firmness in the right as God gives us to see the right,' we forgive the comparatively slight injury directly given us and hope that the great Southland which suffered immeasurably more injury will receive us in the same spirit. There is no need to recount the details of this discussion, how history shows that Bennett H. Young was a commissioned officer of the Confederacy and that his raid on the St. Albans bank was a part of a scheme to bolster up the waning fortunes of a lost cause—that has been said again and again in the state press and proven until even ex-Gov. Ormsbee has been forced to make admission of the former. But there still remain some, and among them Lieut. Bissell, who cannot forgive as they might hope to be forgiven.

CURRENT COMMENT

Tearing Old Wounds Open.

Granting that Young's act, committed when he was a hot-headed Southern youth of 22, and when the South was ready to adopt desperate measures, was not legitimate warfare, that he was a loud noise who would have been summarily put to death if he had been apprehended at the time he made the raid, it would have been well to have recognized that the war was over 44 years ago, that the past is forgotten or forgiven, that a reunited country faces the future with differences obliterated, and that former foes may now fraternize without tearing open old sores.

It might be said in closing that the persistence of a protest from Rutland in an affair which primarily concerned St. Albans is not apparent—Brattleboro Phoenix.

Princely Salaries For Teachers.

It will be seen by figures given elsewhere in this issue that the average monthly salary paid to the teachers in the Ludlow schools, exclusive of the high school, reaches the princely sum of thirty-five dollars and seventy-six cents.

Ludlow is doing about as well in this regard as other towns in the state. But this is not saying much. There are numerous business openings which offer the bright young girl more satisfactory returns than the amount quoted above, and it is not to be wondered at that so many of those who possess the qualifications of a successful teacher prefer to enter some other field of activity in which the financial inducement is so much greater than the state of Vermont sees fit to hold out for those to whom it would look for the development of its boys and girls.

There is something wrong with a system which calls upon young men and women for so important service and gives, comparatively, so little in return; and the best educational results cannot thus be secured.—Ludlow Tribune.

The Roll of Honor.

The Monitor prints below the first complete and correct list of those members of the last legislature who left a part or the whole of the extra pay voted the last of the session with the state at the time of adjournment.

Thomas C. Cheney, all of extra pay, to school fund.

R. C. Williams, Newport, all of extra pay, for school fund.

Senator Edward Orvis of Manchester, all of extra pay, for fish and game fund.

Sen. E. T. Fairbanks of St. Johnsbury, $60.00, or the amount accrued before January 1, 1909, to general fund.

Sen. W. E. Silas of Calais, all of extra pay, to general fund.

Representative E. P. Adams of Marlboro, all of extra pay, to general fund.

Representative Arthur L. Hewitt of Berlin, $92.00, to be applied on state taxes of town of Berlin.

The Monitor gets this list direct from the secretary of state and takes great pleasure in printing it in order that every man on the list may receive full credit. We are pleased to note the name of one Orleans county member on the list and if every county had just one such member the list would have contained 14 names instead of only eight.

Mr. Williams was one of the first to oppose the bill on the floor of the house, voted against the measure and then left the "extra" there. We believe this a roll of honor and are glad to give it all the publicity possible.—Barton Monitor.

JINGLES AND JESTS

Dogfish.

Did you ever see a dog fish?
Then hearken to my tale;
Our Rover went a-fishing and
His efforts did avail.

This very clever doggie
Knew what he was about—
He went where there were dogfish
And, barking, lured them out.
—Kansas City Journal.

Many Husbands.

"I have three husbands to support,"
pleaded the ragged beggar woman.
"What—you are a bigamist?"
"No, sir. One husband's mine, and the others belong to my two daughters."
—Cleveland Ledger.

During The Honeymoon.

"Hobby, I want to wear my thin shoes in the rain."
"Well, dovey!"
"Tell me I mustn't!"—Kansas City Journal.

De Eas' Win'.

"De Eas' Win'—de Eas' Win'—
I makin' er my moans;
It givin' me de twitches
An' de rattlin' in my bones!"
—Atlanta Constitution.

"It comes down de chimney—
It projick all erbout;
I grine ter shake de shingles
An' blow de fire out!"
—Atlanta Constitution.

"De Eas' Win'—de Eas' Win'—
It 'stroyin' all my peace;
I sholy wish dat Eas' Win'
Had never lof' de Eas'!"
—Atlanta Constitution.

Did The Right Thing.

Judge—You say you found this $5 bill?
Prisoner—Yes, your Honor.
Judge—And you didn't attempt to restore it?

Prisoner—I did, your Honor.
Judge—To its owner.
Prisoner—No; to circulation.—Judge.

A Youthful Yearn.

"Do angels have wings?"
"Yes, I could have 'em now. Gee, how I could go after them high liners."
—Kansas City Journal.

He Knew.

"There is no number so unlucky as thirteen," said the superstitious person.
"Yes, there is," answered Mr. Chugquis. "I don't remember it, but it's on the back of my motor car."—Washington Star.

Her Preference.

Said the brunette maid
To another quite fair:
"For flirtin' 'tis said
You really don't care—
But it's coddles of fun
To flirt with a fun."
"Fugget it," said the fair one,
"Give me a fool man."
—Chicago News.

Fatherly Advice.

"Dad," said the country youth who had just graduated from the district school, "I have long cherished a desire to go on the stage, and have at last decided, with your permission, to—"
"My boy," interrupted the old granger, "all the world's a stage. You hitch the mules to the big red plough and transfer the outfit to the ten-acre lot behind the barn, where you can enact the star role in that beautiful drama entitled 'Down on the Farm.'"
—Chicago News.

MONTPELIER

Amateur Minstrels Scored a Big Success in Y. M. C. A. Benefit.

A decided hit was made by the amateur minstrels in their opening performance at the Blanchard opera house last night for the benefit of the Montpelier Y. M. C. A. The performance went off so well, the hits were mostly local and were good, and the singing and music numbers were of a high merit. E. A. Nott was intercomedian with Herbert L. Slayton, Chris. Mahoney, George K. Putnam, Frank E. Goss, L. Freeman Butterfield and John F. Dobbs doing the end men stunts. Mr. "Curly" Goss was the most jovial "colored" gentleman and his song, "Going up" was encored again and again. There was a nice chorus of male voices, impersonations by John Thomas who is temporarily staying in Montpelier, a musical melody by Howard Hasselente and, last but not least, "Anna Hel-d and Beauty and Chorus" in which Perley Pope was Anna and Messrs. Gleason, Blapied, Flint, Colby, Greene and Fitzgerald were the "beauties." Aside from the hits and adornments of two of the men, the make-ups were good. The "ladies" appeared in smart gowns, cosmetics and fetchin' smiles. The stage manager of the performance was George McMaster, while Fred Whittier directed the Montpelier Military Band orchestra. There was a good crowd present, and another one is expected at the second performance this evening.

Death of Mrs. Martha Carpenter, Died After Long Illness.

Mrs. Martha Hatch, wife of C. H. Carpenter, died at her home on Barre street at 9:10 o'clock yesterday morning after a long illness. Death was due to a cancerous growth for the relief of which Mrs. Carpenter had suffered four operations. She was born in Wells September 13, 1852 and was a daughter of George and Hannah Vance Hatch. She passed her early life in that town, where she was married to Clarence H. Carpenter March 12, 1881. They went to Bradford, where for 15 years they lived after which they came to this city and have since lived in Montpelier. Two children were born to them, Irene H., aged 19, and Fay H., aged 17 years who with their father survive the deceased. She also leaves two brothers, C. Hatch, formerly of Littleton, N. H., who is now en route to California where he will make his home and P. B. Hatch, of Woodsville, N. H., also by one sister, Mrs. Amelia Muliken, of Woodsville. Her parents died while she was young. The deceased was a member of the Bethany church. A prayer will be said at the house at 11 o'clock Friday morning which will be private and the body will be carried to Wells River where the funeral and interment will take place.
